Decorating goal posts with school colors are Carol Drennen, Linda Newton, Janne Hurrelbrink, Barbara Bartlett, Joanne Fallon, Diana Lowry.

Excitement mounts as Rodger Crites leads the team thru the hoop onto the field.

In full orbit, a lively crew go about their individual activities.

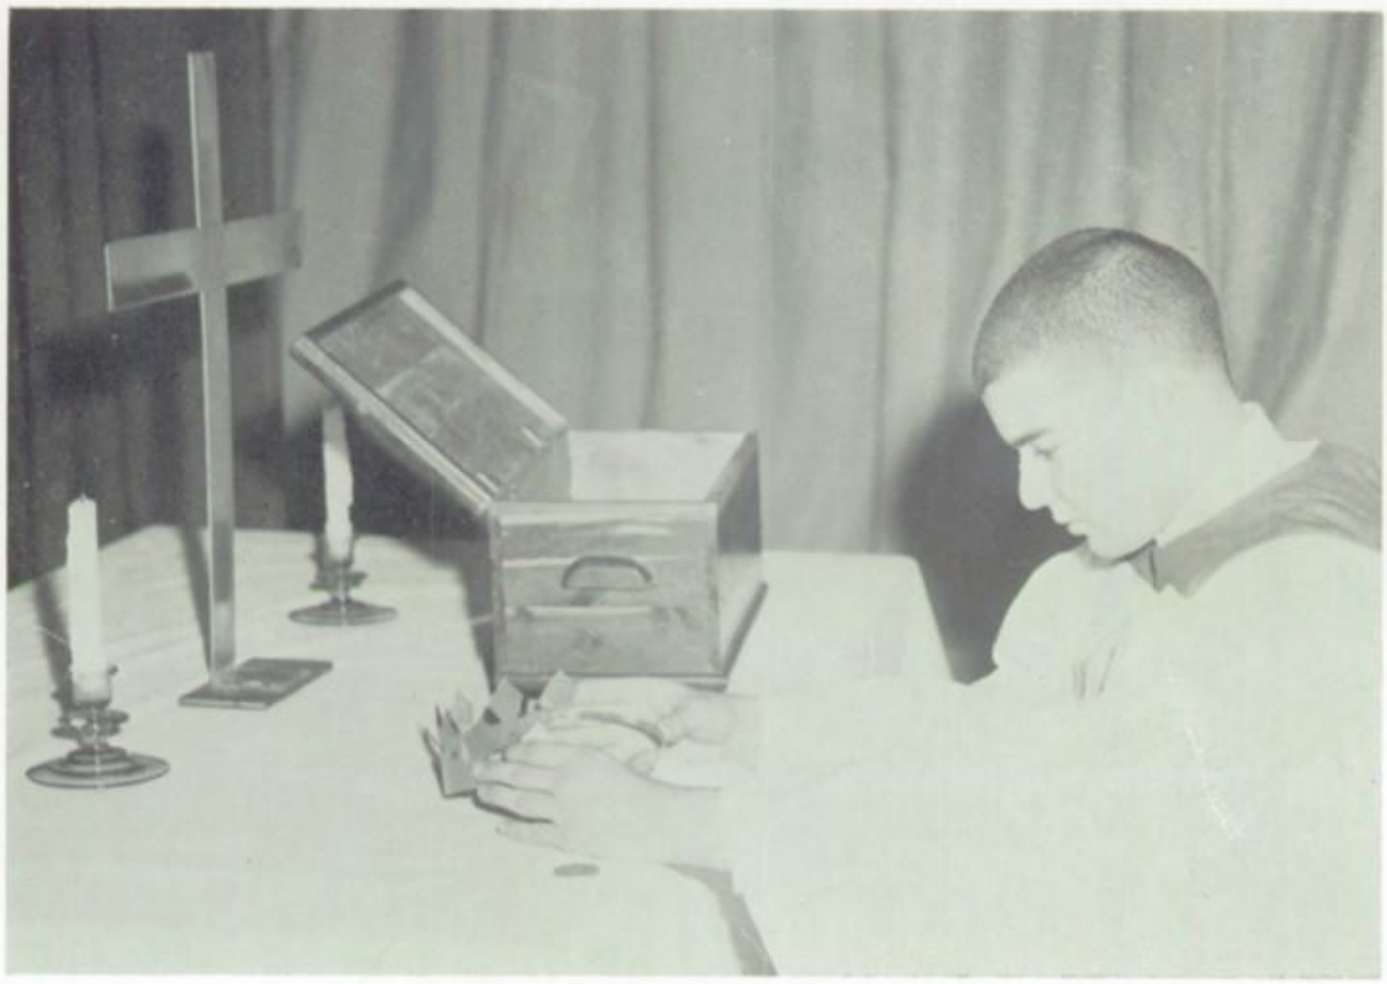
Enthusiasm to produce and support record-breaking athletic teams is matched by the spirit to excel in scholastic achievement.

Led by cheerleaders and band, everyone gathers in the fairgrounds for a rousing send-off for the team.

The first drum major in many years, Greg Lowry struts in typical style to show off his new uniform.

In a whirlwind of extra-curricular activities, everyone becomes involved in the social life of school dances, the fun in fine arts, and the satisfaction of completing club projects.

Key Clubbers hang a giant wreath to give passers-by some of the Harding holiday spirit.



In vain the king (Donald Spain) puts his crown on the altar in Hi-Y's prouction of "Why the Chimes Rang."

The Limbo proves to be one of the favorite dances at the after game sock-hops.

A modern high-speed computer hastened the processing of important data. The IBM progressively lightened the load on our staff by accepting more duties, from making schedule cards to averaging grades for the honor roll. Department by department, our school forges ahead toward higher goals.

Assistant Principal Louis Hyde and Mrs. Mildred Weirick watch the new IBM computer turn out the first batch of report cards.

With The Faculty

With Appreciation for Devoted Service

Outstanding! This word describes the unique qualities and capabilities of two fine men. Both are devoted to instilling a desire for learning in their students, and are always willing to lend a helping-hand where needed. For them the school day does not end at 3:05, for they are always busy preparing interesting and exciting aspects of their subjects for their classes. Through their support and leadership such clubs as Key Club, Spanish Club, and Student Council, and such activities as the Mardi Gras have prospered. To these two outstanding teachers, Clayton Carleton and Harold Hetzler, we dedicate the 1963 Echoes.

Administrators Set Educational Framework

Grateful thanks should be given to the hardworking men and women who give shape to the educational program in Warren. In a normal year, they regulate the budget, the curriculum, and school activities. The superintendent and assistant superintendents receive the backing of a capable Board of Education elected to represent the community. Once the policies have been established, the responsibility of carrying them out falls on principals and vice-principals.

Upheld By Board With Modern Aims

School problems engross the Board of Education: Oliver R. Jones, Louis Baughman, president; Dr. Clyde Muter, William B. Miller, Mrs. I. B. Taylor.

Dr. Jameson confers with O. A. Lovett and Wiley Garrett, assistant superintendents of business and curriculum, respectively.

Principals Oversee Progress at High Level

Many times during the year, vice-principals Louis Swart and Louis Hyde discuss school problems with principal, Abe R. Keefer.

Counselors Lay Base for Many Futures

Marie O'Rourke and Merrill Cooley, junior counselors, arrange a schedule for the National Merit Scholarship testing program.

Planning for the future is vital to a high school student. Capable counselors are always on the scene to lend a helping hand to one in need of advice. Their kind and guiding words help make the largest of problems small enough to handle. One very important problem is the selecting of courses which must be in line with the career a student plans to follow. The counselors also supervise the high school testing programs and help students interpret the results.

Brigitte,
A sweet n' cute girl

Growing Staff Adds Fresh Outlook

Harding has acquired eighteen new staff members this year, bringing with them new ideas and methods of teaching to help maintain Harding's modern, up-to-date educational program. Many of these teachers are fresh from college and have come with plenty of enthusiasm for their new careers. The faculty is the largest one in Harding's history and will probably continue to expand. In addition to the staff are eight clerical office assistants, a custodian, and a staff of twelve janitors who keep the school clean and neat and functioning properly.

Profession Involves Faculty In Offices . . .

Professional organizations require time from an already crowded schedule. Special honors have been brought to Harding by teachers who were elected to important posts. Merrill Cooley took on the responsibilities of president of the Ohio Education Association. Richard Boyd is completing a busy term as Warren Education Association leader. Kathleen Kelly was recently elected president of the Northeastern Ohio Dramatics Association. Workshops and seminars keep one abreast with new educational developments. Many are sent to state, national, and international conventions as delegates.

Sports Challenges Break Routine

Those who feel that a teacher's life is all work have only to visit Harding during intramural season. It has been a tradition for the intramural champions to challenge the men of the faculty to a game of basketball at the end of the tournament. The student body flocks to the fieldhouse after school for the only paid admission game of the year, knowing that a hilarious time is in store. This year, the Girls' Athletic Association asked the women teachers to don their shorts and play them two stimulating games of volleyball. On these occasions it was hard to tell whether student or teacher had the most fun.

Sponsors Manage Club Activities

With close to 50 extra-curricular organizations functioning here, almost everyone on the faculty is involved with one or more activities in addition to his classroom assignment. Working with officers and executive committees, the sponsors offer timely suggestions for achieving projects and goals and stand by to help in many ways. Clubs associated with the curriculum find encouragement from the teachers, and those based upon career interests or service have capable advisers. Guiding a class of 600 to 1,000 members involves a group of sponsors, who follow students through their entire three years.

Dividing responsibilities, senior sponsors help the class with diverse problems . . . football programs, dances, announcements and name cards, senior play, graduation . . . and in the senior year become the homeroom teachers when the class assembles as a unit in the auditorium.

Added to the list must be the coaches of all the varsity and intramural sports. While major teams such as football and basketball require a crew of coaches, many individuals are working season by season with those interested in other types of athletic competition. Long before a tennis team appears on the court, for example, the squad has begun practice in the gym, and the swimmers have been put through intensive exercise by their coach weeks before they enter the pool. When the schedule finally opens, every varsity player knows he is ready to meet his opponents because of the aid and support of a coach interested in the sport and him.

In The Classroom

Basic English Skills Provide Foundation

Colorful bulletin boards, panel discussions and acting of plays, even if it only means reading the parts, add to the interest of required English courses. For basic grammar, the textbook and theme writing are important. Appreciation of poetry comes quickly when students try to write poems of their own. Many teachers institute poetry contests where students may let their flair for verse show forth. Novels and outside reading increase enjoyment to the understanding of literature. The writing of original plays and term papers puts English to valuable use.

An American lit classroom becomes a stage when John Keifer, Ann Plahy and Brian Kochunas enact a realistic one-act play.

Sue Maytas, left, and Sue Flint adjust skirt on Marlene Zuga as they study costuming in dramatics.

Speech class gives Nancy Curtis an opportunity to express her ideas while John Graora and Sharon Strock listen attentively.

For Special Branches of Communication

A panel on English authors is presented by Donald James, Dennis Schuller, Moderator Tom Pogue, Cheryl Clutter, Carol Punscak.

Variety and specialization are offered in such courses as speech, journalism, and dramatics. Poise . . . public speaking . . . verbal fluency and control . . . are all a part of speech. In journalism, students learn to write interesting accounts of school activities for the school and city newspapers. Dramatics offers a chance for the would-be actor to show his talents, along with learning make-up techniques, lighting, and other forms of dramatic art.

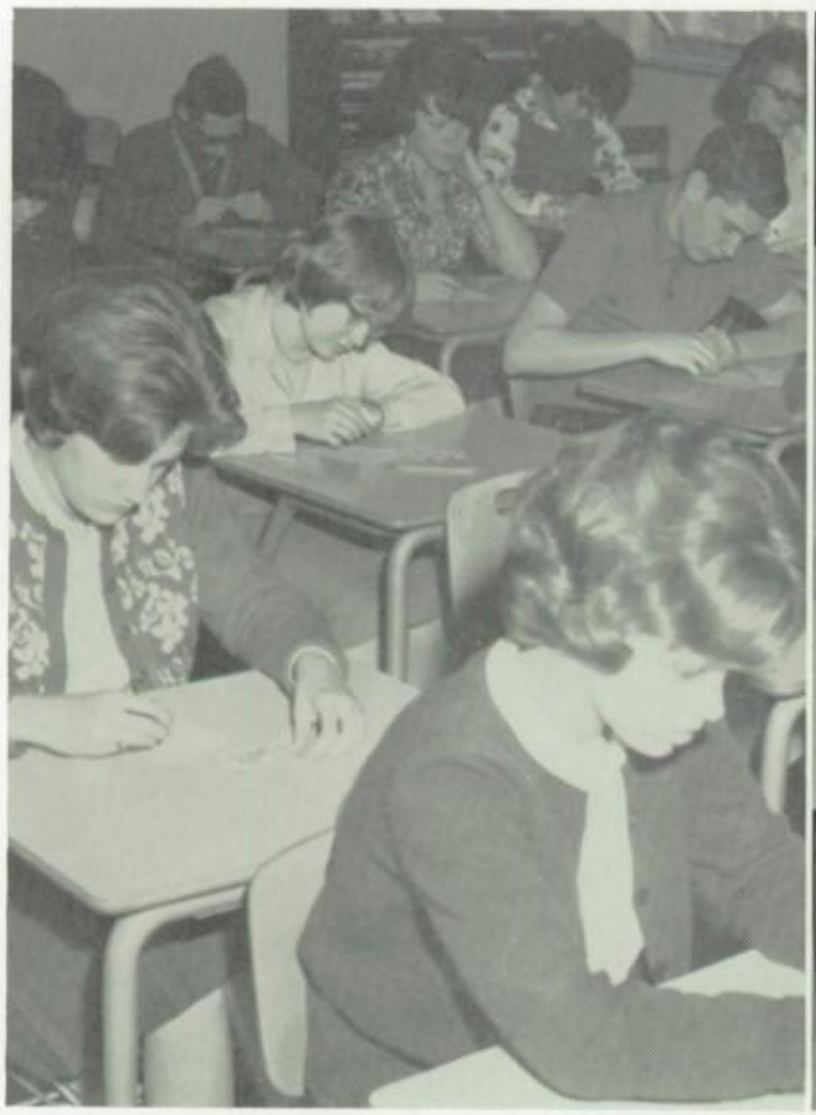
Assistant editor Roslyn Rubin and editor Diane Abbott deliver Highlights copy to the Tribune.

Student-made Latin greeting cards are displayed by Janice Henry.

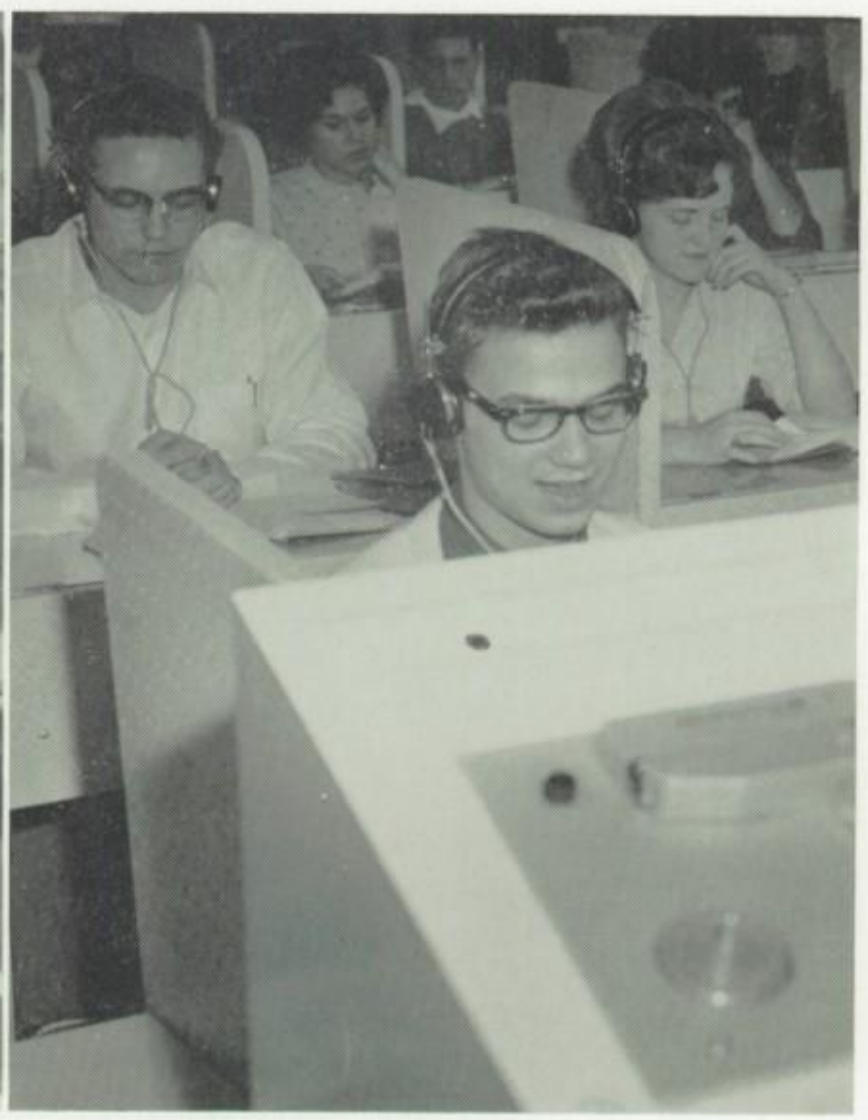
The field of foreign languages is a large one with much to be learned about the history and present-day life of the various countries. In the laboratory, students listen to tapes in order to improve their pronunciation.

Mathematics presents a different challenge. Juggling figures to make an algebraic equation check out . . . proving that two triangles are similar but not congruent . . . measuring the speed of light . . . all present difficult problems which really do have a solution.

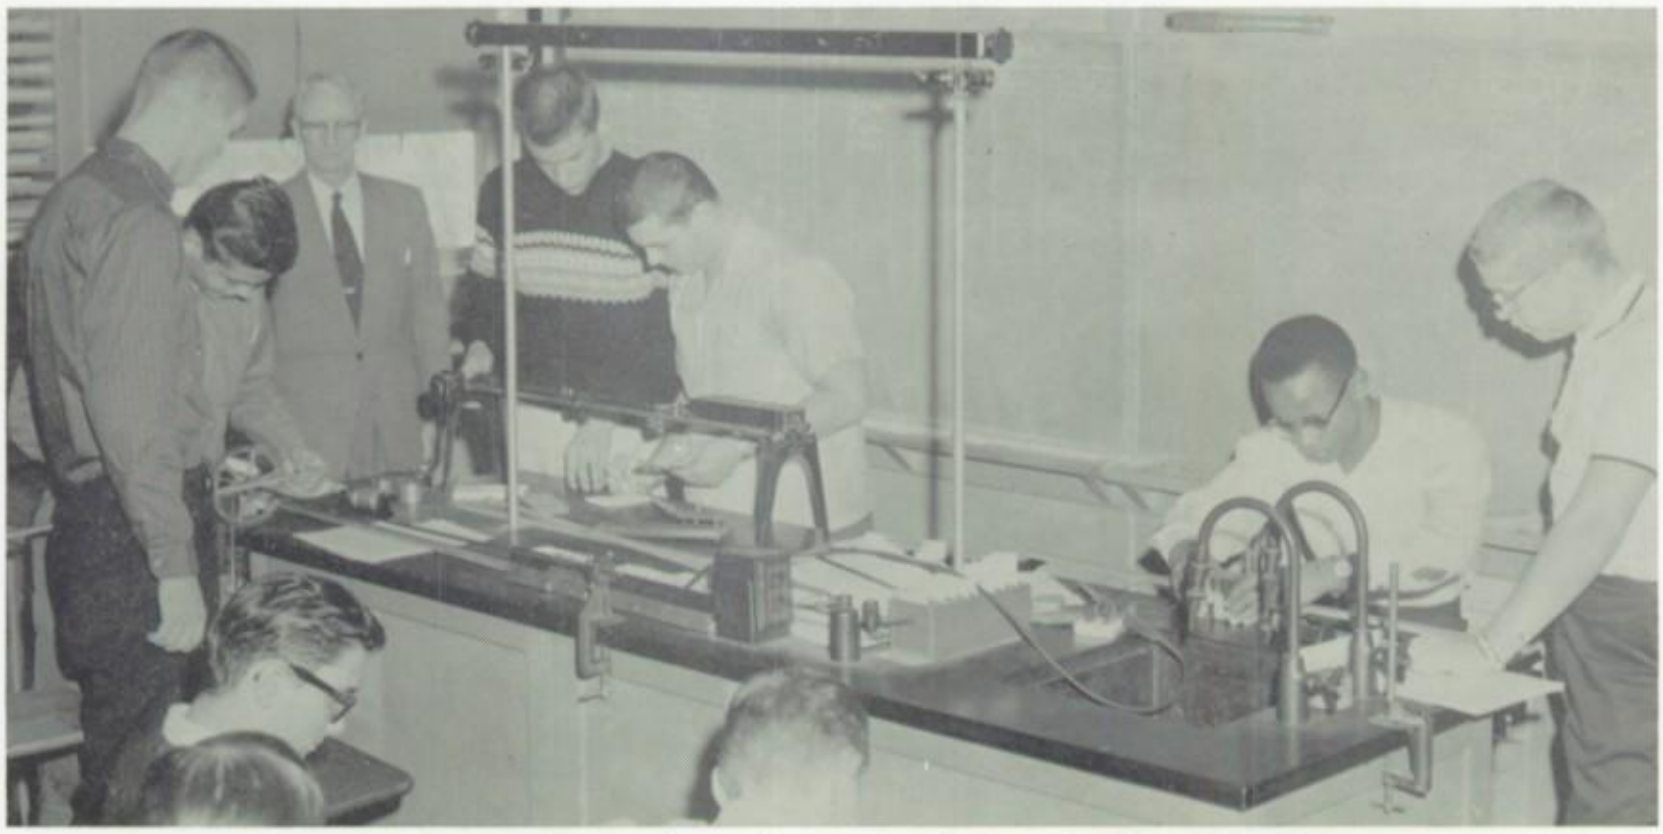
Foreign Languages Extend World Culture



Playing 'Numero', a French form of Bingo, develops skill in recalling and applying numbers for language scholars.



Working in the language laboratory helps students with their pronunciation of Spanish and quickens conversational responses.

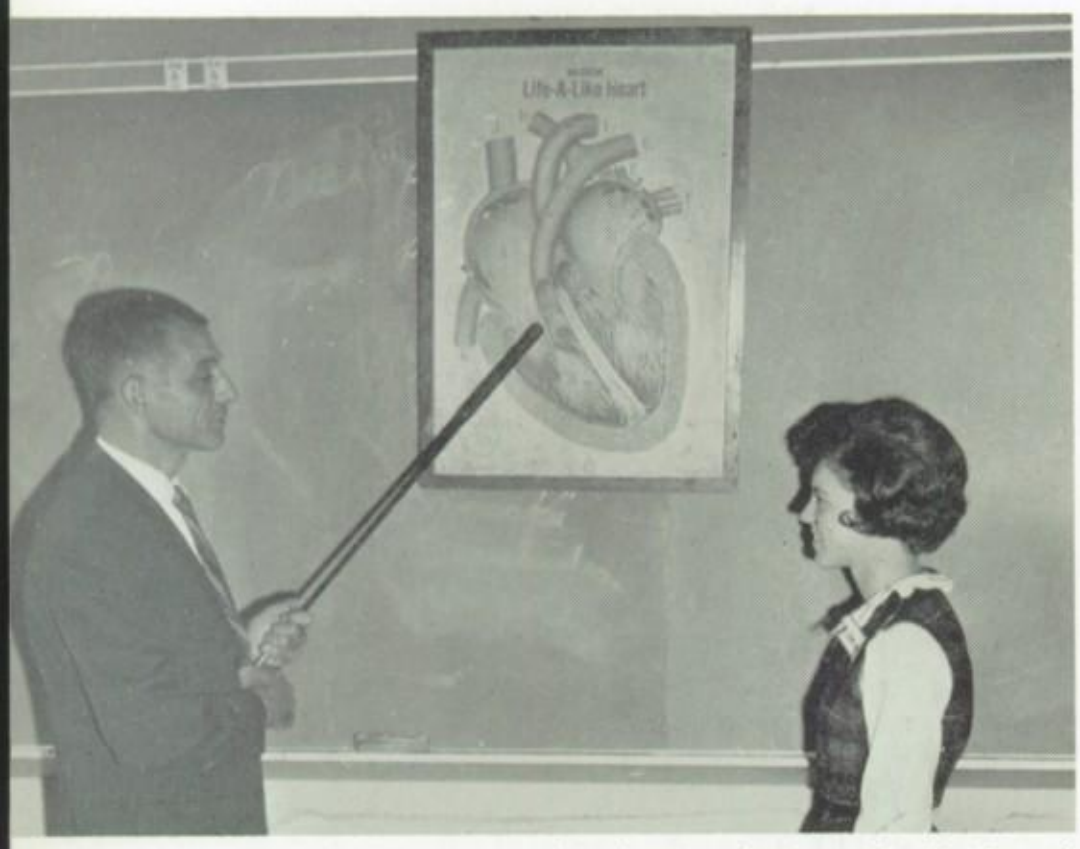


A group of boys give a demonstration before the physics class on principles of Hooke's Law, while Clayton Carleton supervises.

Mathematics Requires Logical Thinking

Difficult geometrical constructions are tediously drawn and geometry proofs are clarified on the blackboards by Lynette Robb and Jack Hoyt.

Science Opens Fields of Experimentation



Heart functions are explained to Pamela Cocuzzi by Mr. Koppel.

"Whew! What an odor! Chemistry students must be having a wild day in the lab!" Such a comment is often heard in the southern end of the building, where some sort of bustling activity is always occurring. From biology, odors of formaldehyde used in preserving specimens for disection trail down the hall. From the chemistry lab come strangulating odors such as sulfur and ammonia. The smell of fertilizer is emitted from the greenhouse. Rabbits, snakes, and squirrels appear in the showcases. The functions of mankind, what makes him tick, are the problems confronting physiology students. In these fascinating and worthwhile subjects, good odors by far overshadow bad ones.

Examining the greenhouse pond and inhabitants of the miniature jungle are Ronald Moore, Dawn Weeks, Patricia Pratt, John Pollard.

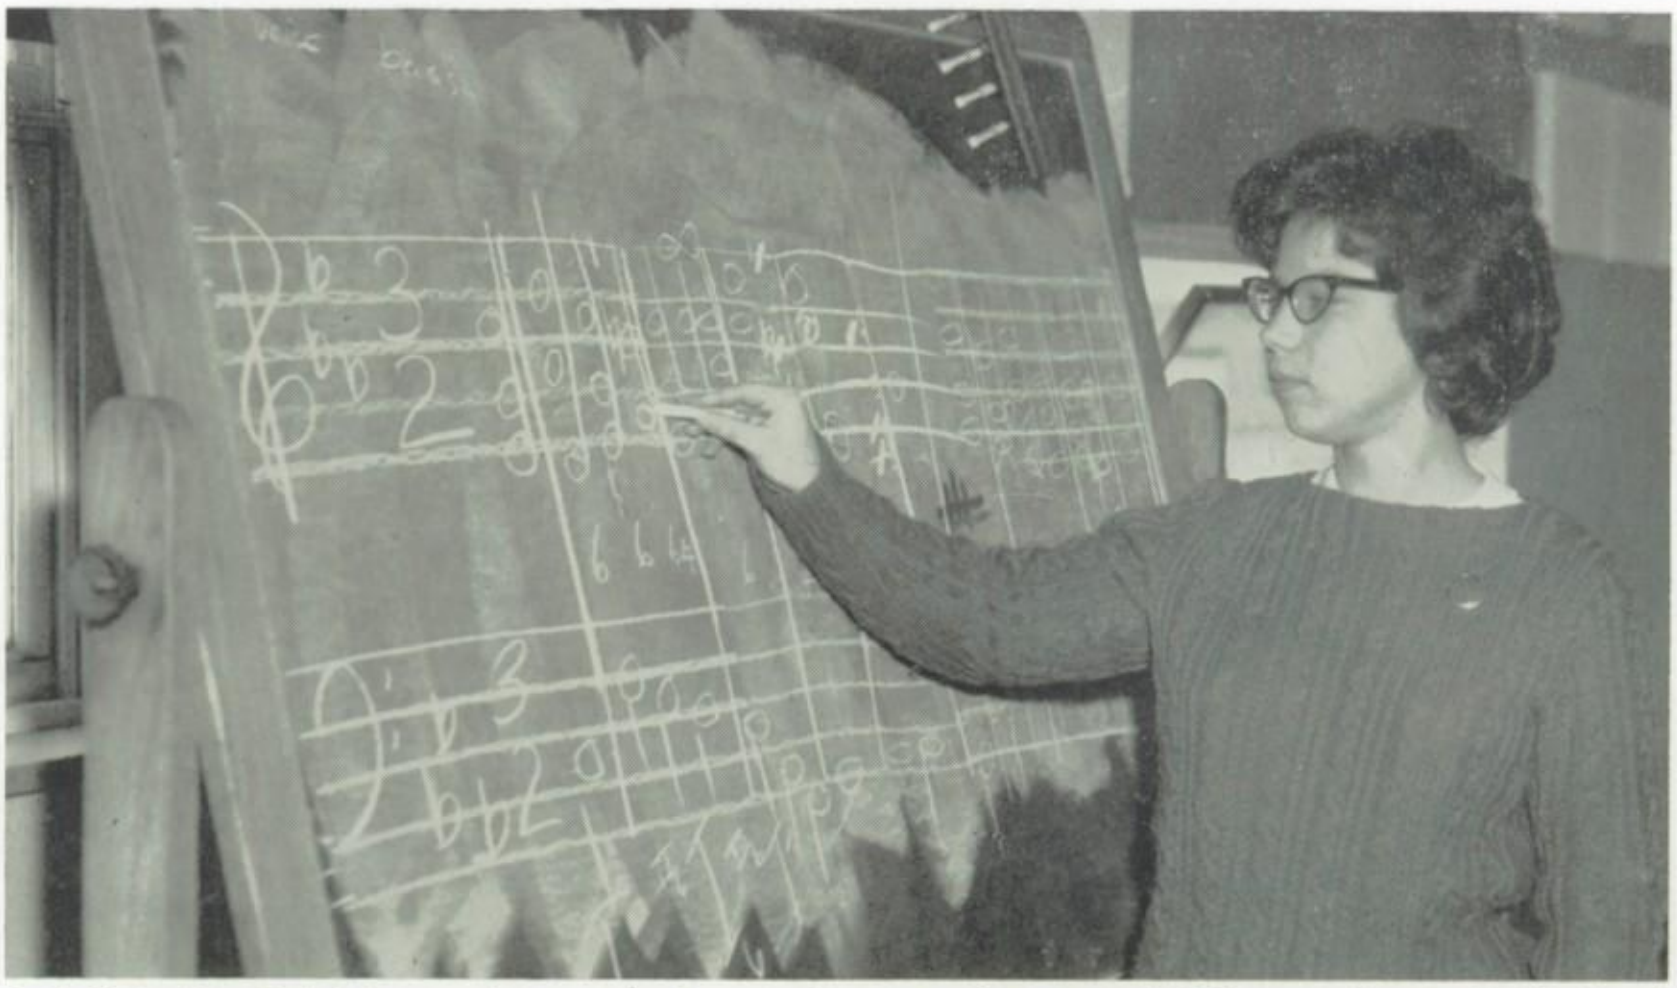
Musical Performance Demands Proficiency



Sarah McCaughtry finds it is convenient to make changes when one works out a musical theory problem on the blackboard.

In instrumental music Joe Antonelli perfects trumpet technique.

Learning the technique of an instrument or how to control one's voice, and then being able to produce the fine distinctions of feeling in a composition give a great deal of personal satisfaction. In art and crafts the creative spirit has free reign. Everyone tries for a place in the biennial art show or to win an award in competition. When the band wins an excellent rating or one places a painting or ceramic piece, there is an immediate glow of achievement, but the student knows he is also building recreational skills for the future. Some, of course, will pursue careers as commercial artists or professional musicians. Driving, on the other hand, is almost a necessity in this busy world, and a license is the goal of every teen-ager.

Artists Reveal Creative Self-Expression

A papier-mache cat has finishing touches applied by creators, Ronald Humphrey and Barbara Prokay.

Examining his clay model football player is artist John Baca.

Brigitte,
So a sweat and nice girl I have known for quite awhile. may you find success and happiness in everything you may do. You are the kind of person who deserves the best of every - thing. Good luck in the future.

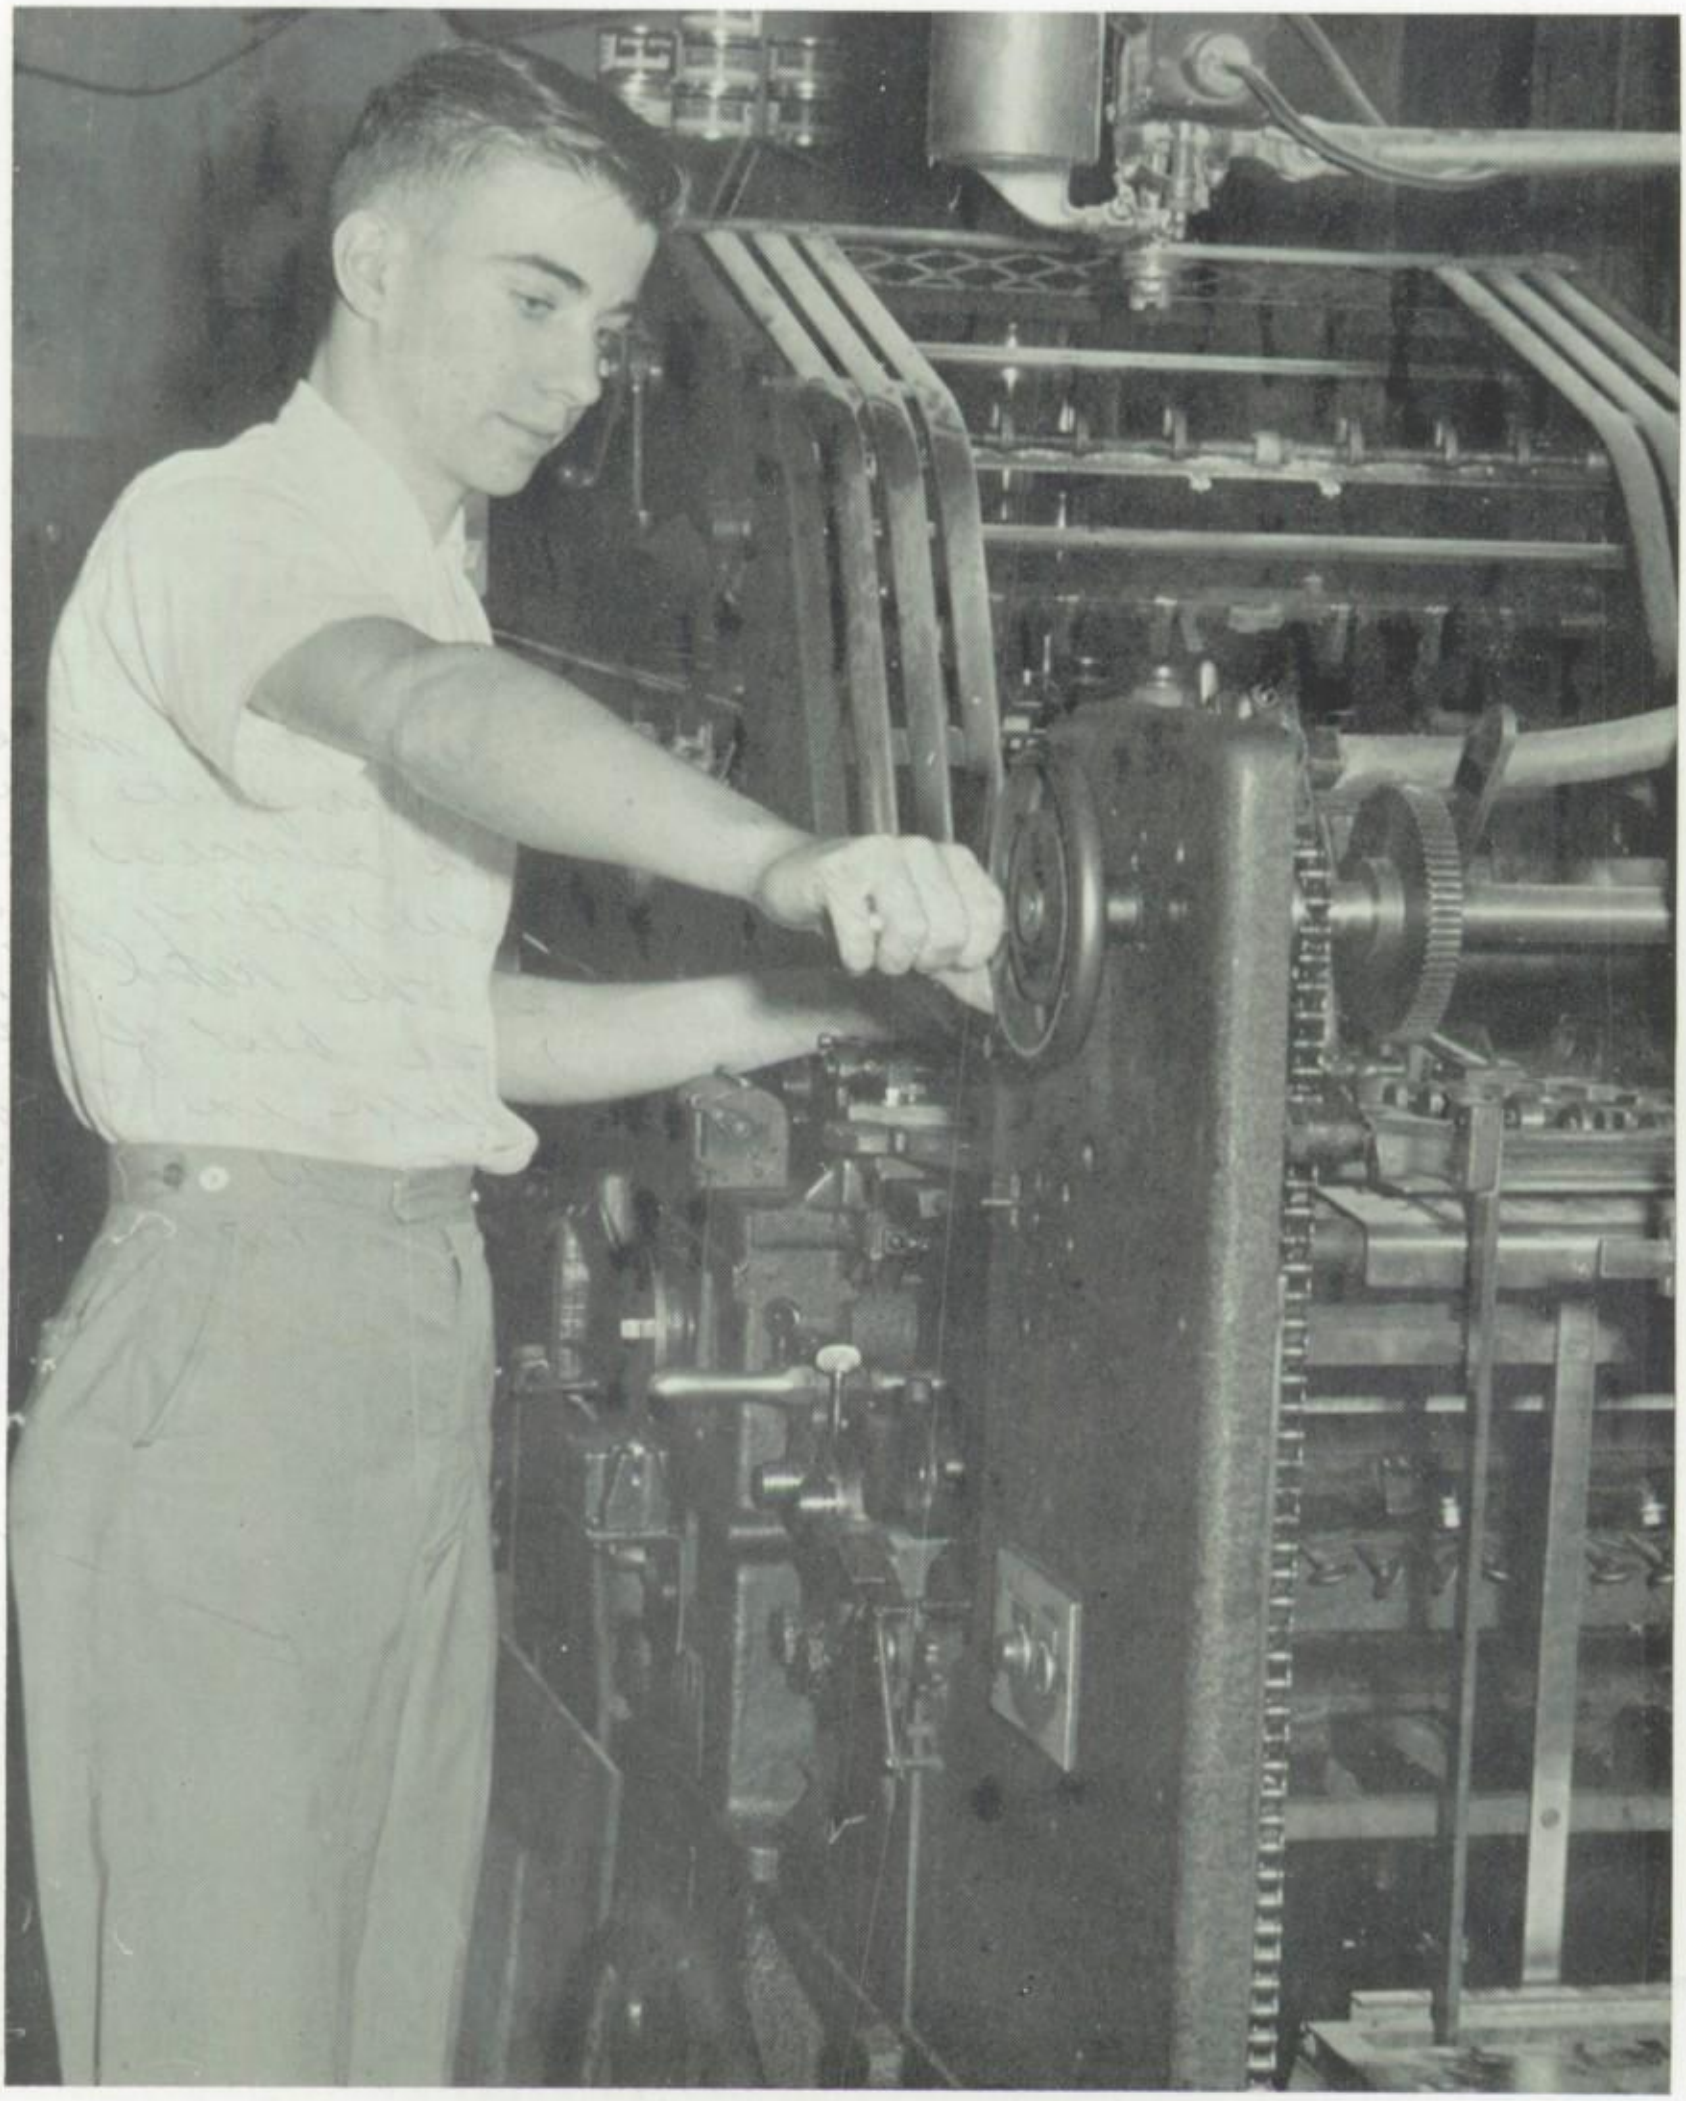
Co-op Class Improves Vocational Program



On the job learning procedures in printing techniques are experienced by Larry Rowen, a participant in the new Co-op program.

Examining part of a car engine during auto shop are Louis Padula, Jack Hackett and Ruhl Straby.

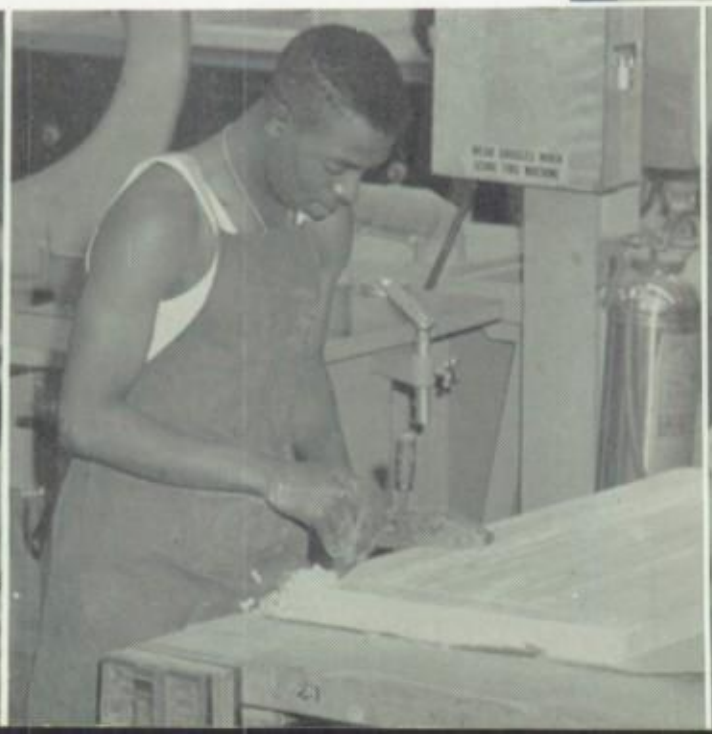
Latest addition to the vocational program is co-operative training. Similar to distributive education where students study merchandising procedures in the morning and work in retail stores in the afternoon, co-op students learn trade techniques and then go to various jobs. In regular vocational shops boys receive training as future welders, electricians, draftsmen, and mechanics. With the help of modern machinery students turn out attractive wood and metal objects in industrial arts.

Protective goggles are worn by Lawrence Dombrosky while he practices using a cutting torch on metal.

Working patiently on a drafting project is Thomas Steinmetz.

Charles Grounds and Charles Salem examine brass candlesticks, which was a machine shop project.

Metal spinning keeps Eugene MacCully busy, while Charles Bell scrapes wood for a desk and Richard Cooper assembles a fan in electrical shop.



Health Program Increases Mental, Physical Growth

Since President Kennedy's plan for physical fitness has gone into effect, there has been an ever-increasing amount of emphasis placed on the physical education program in the schools. This is especially true at Harding, where new programs have been put into effect on Saturdays. Of course, Intramurals are always an added attraction for the boys. The basketball tournament is one of the new programs started for girls this year. To be able to keep in shape for these activities is only one of the things which students learn in health class.

In gymnastics Donald Knapp and Donald Ross are among the first to meet Mr. Thompson's approval.

Heading for the net goes the volleyball as girls participate in a spirited game in the small gym.

Transcribing shorthand into accurately written letters, future secretaries realize the importance of taking faultless notes.

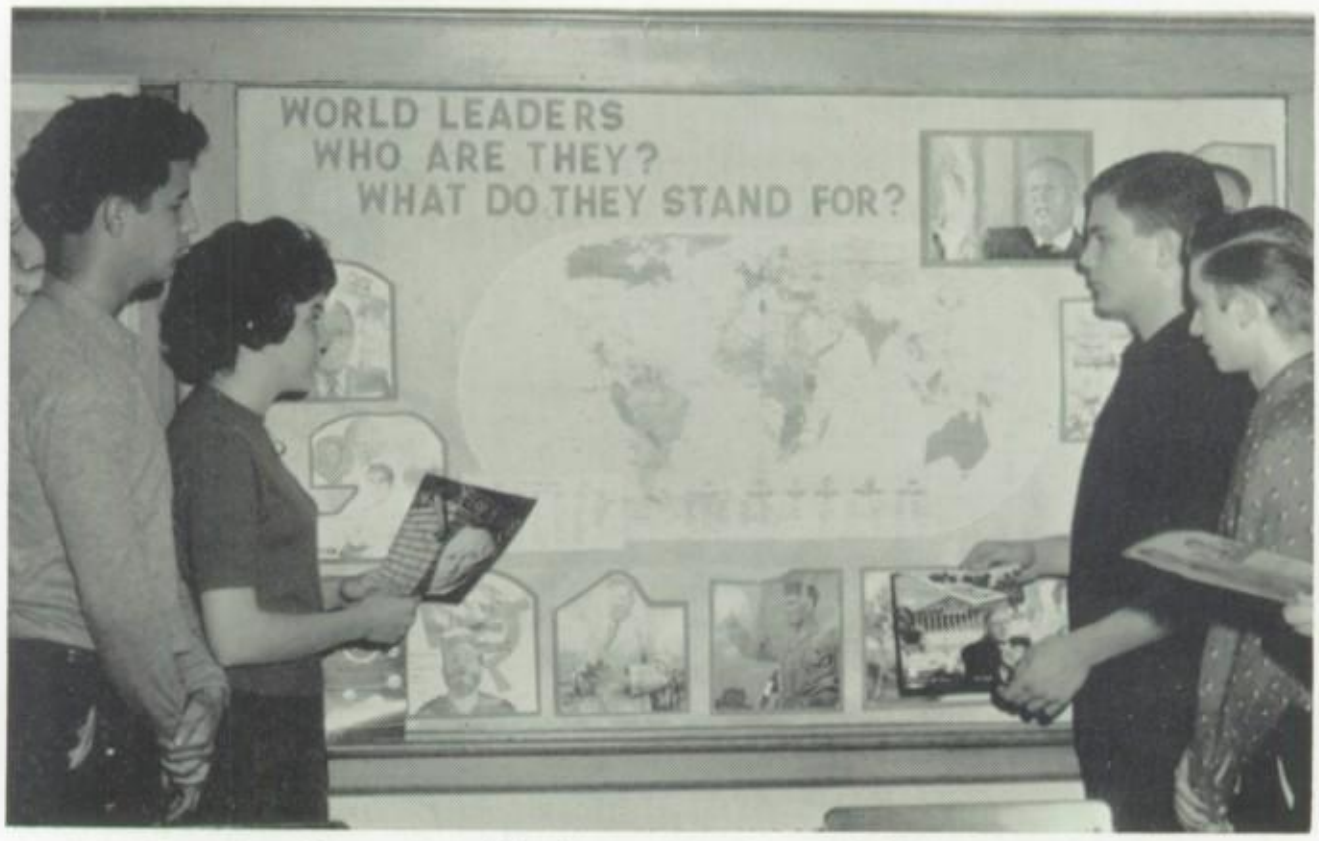
Office Ability Develops With Practice

"Practice makes perfect" is the theory under which business education students gain speed and efficiency in typing, office machines, shorthand, and transcription. Bookkeepers, accountants and future business leaders learn what will be required of them in the fast-moving world of business.

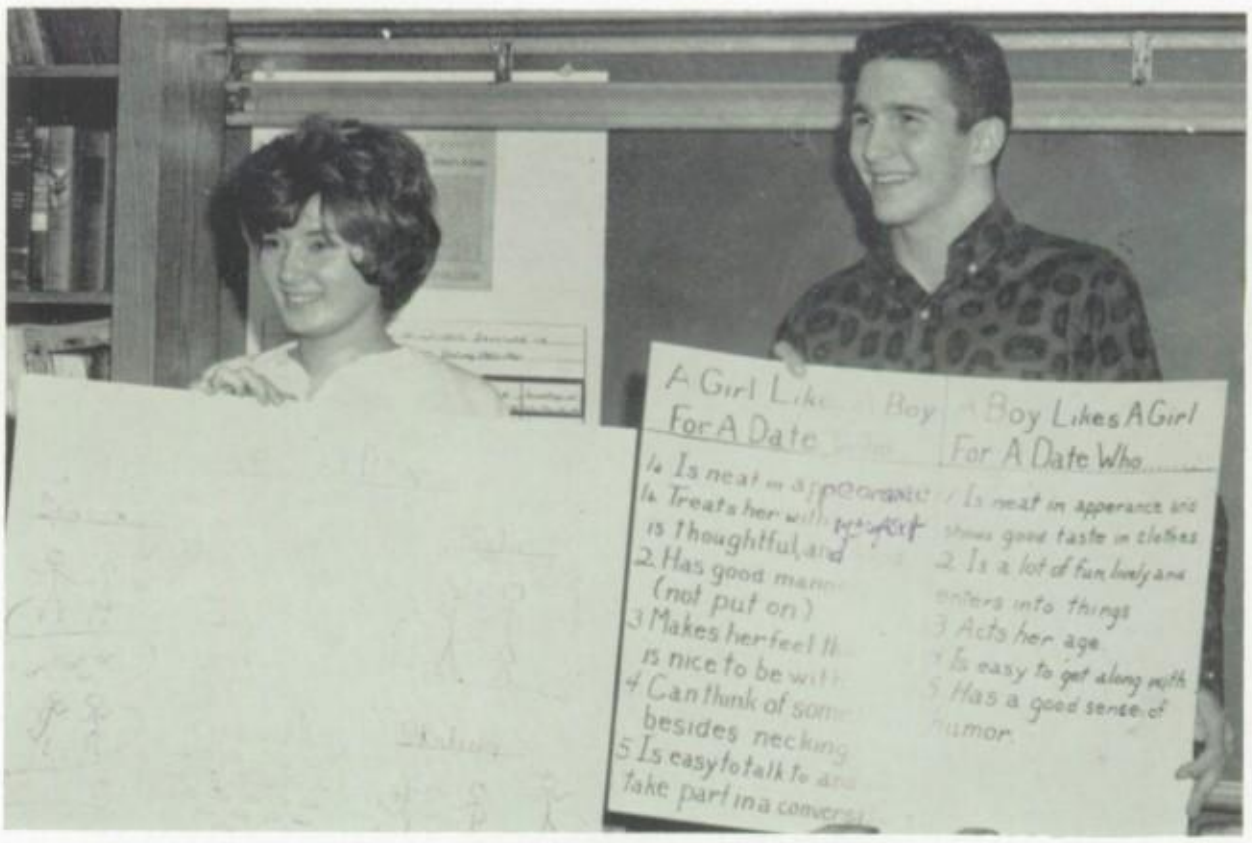
To each her own applies to Sharon Nutt, Shirley Painter, and Darlene Sain, who are mastering the techniques of entirely different office machines.

When checking his accounts for bookkeeping class, Michael Daily uses a computing machine, as do Gretta Leach and Mary Pastore.

Social Studies Emphasize People, Places



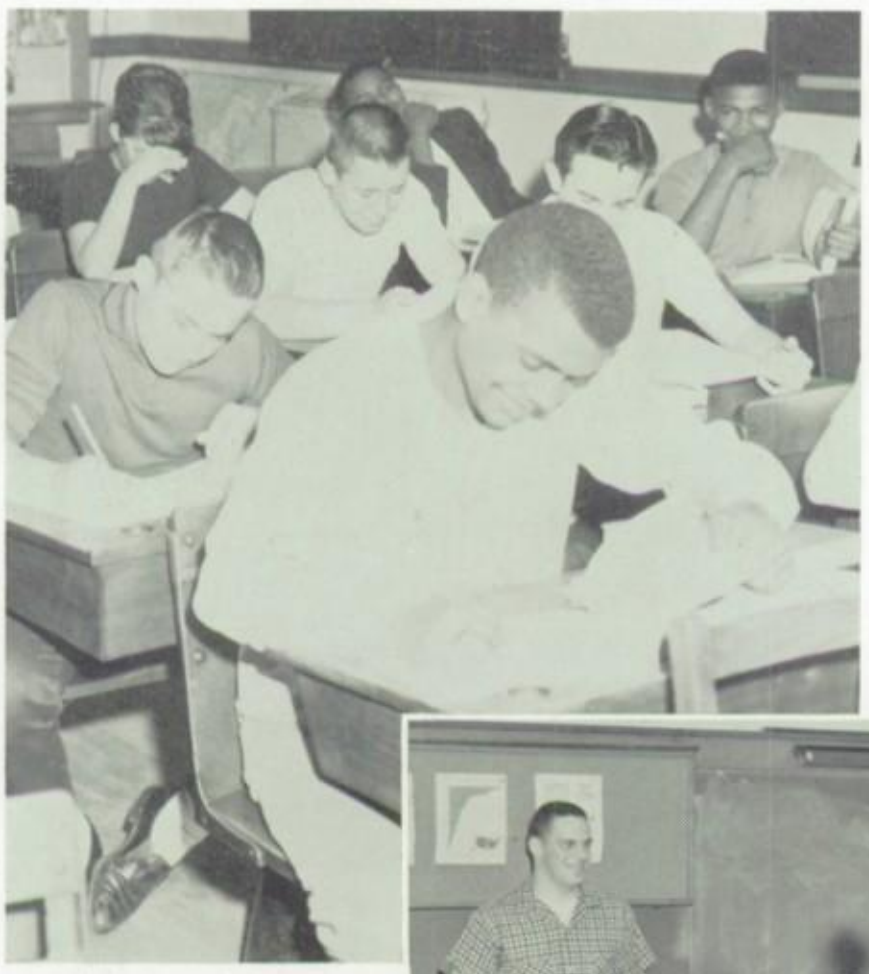
Countries of current world leaders are found on maps by James Robinchak, Kae Evans, Roy Serbu and William Austen in tenth grade world history.



Charts listing qualities in high school dates acceptable to both boys and girls are discussed in sociology class by Darlene Fittipaldo and Russell Ferance.

In social studies, emphasis is placed on important people, places, and events . . . the world in which we live . . . foundations upon which foreign countries are built . . . why's and how's of government . . . current events . . . how our country developed . . . problems which plague modern society. Team teaching is being tried in American history classes. Enrolled under three teachers are 420 students who meet occasionally as a group and at other times in smaller units for special instruction and conferences.

Student librarians Joseph Gorby and Bonnie Radich help keep books in order so that reference materials can be easily found.



Geography texts provide topics for disccussion.

Questions arise when a current events report is given in civics by Rodger Crites.

Future Homemakers Apply Domestic Arts

New skirts will be ready for Betty Haldie and Betty Fike when they stitch waistbands on their sewing projects.

An appetizing meal prepared in foods class is carefully arranged for serving by Marsha Smith and Helen Harvey.

Attractive centerpieces are designed in modern home furnishings class by Viola Calhoun, Roseann DeMarco, and Jennifer Kingston.

Learning how to make a home run smoothly and happily is one of the main goals of the home economics department. Learning to make one's clothes . . . knowing how to prepare and serve an appetizing, yet budget-wise meal . . . the art of entertaining . . . making decorations to brighten up a home . . . furnishing a home beautifully, yet practically . . . choosing the right drapery and furniture to fit into the style of the home . . . these are all important items which are taught in home making. All of these problems give a girl a glimpse into the future problems she may encounter as a homemaker.

Brigitte, the picture of the girl I know you are going to go far. Love forever, Gary 64

Bukeye Boys' State Governor David Gibson discusses problems of state with former Governer Michael V. DiSalle at the goveror's mansion in Columbus. Gibson was elected to the highest office in Boys' State while attending last June along with 13 other Warren boys.

Executive Offices Claim Time, Leadership

Self-government for the student body is provided by Student Council, composed of representatives from every homeroom. In addition to the annual sales of pencils and movie passes, the group has sponsored the sale of stationery and promoted honesty and patriotism by campaigns and speeches. David Gibson, who gained experience by his governorship at Boys' State, aided the council in their varied projects and introduced several new ideas of student government. The monitor system was headed by William Mink.

Student body president David Gibson is sworn in by Mr. Keefer.

Approximately sixty-five members of Student Council meet in the activity room every other Tuesday to discuss school problems.

BRENDA JOHNSON
Homecoming Queen

Over 9,000 Witness Homecoming Crowning

Gay activities highlighted Homecoming ceremonies at the John Adams football game. Half-time featured the crowning of Queen Brenda Johnson, who was escorted by Student Body President David Gibson. She was crowned by Claudia Muter, president of Boosters Club. Brenda also reigned the following night at the Homecoming Dance sponsored by Letterman's Club. Along with Queen Brenda, attendants Mary Beth Alderman and Kay Gibson received large bouquets of red roses.

At the queen's table are Mary Beth Alderman, Queen Brenda, Wendell Smith and Kay Gibson.

DARLENE FITTIPALDO
Winter Sports Queen

Gathered around the Winter Sports Queen, Darlene Fittipaldo, immediately following her coronation are her attendants and their escorts: Donald Spain, Linda Hengst, Charles Grisham, Heather Graham, Rick Lough, Jean Schneider, William Mink, Bruce Brewster, Jane Kutz, James Gardner, Carol Fleming. David Stratford, crown bearer, and Judy Schneider, flower girl, complete the court.

Royalty Reigns at Coronation Ball

The Coronation Ball, sponsored by Pep Club, was attended by a large crowd of anxious students who placed their ballots at the dance for the candidate of their choice. Traditionally, the president of Pep Club crowns the queen, but this year Darlene Fittipaldo, who is president, was chosen as Winter Sports Queen; thus Patricia Hastings, vice president, had the honor of crowning the queen at an impressive ceremony.

The queen in the past has received her crown for a keepsake. This year, however, she was presented with a sterling silver crown for her charm bracelet.

Dance plans occupy the Pep Club committee: Marc Graham, William Hyde, Mary Hawkins, Darlene Fittipaldo, 1; Mary Beth Alderman, 3; Jill Neugebauer. Absent—Patricia Hastings, 2; Diane Kaighin, 4.

1—President, 2—Vice President, 3—Secretary, 4—Treasurer.

DAVID GIBSON
Mardi Gras Rex

MARY BETH ALDERMAN
Mardi Gras Regina

Scarecrows (Darlene Fittipaldo, Bill Mink) and Raggedy Ann and Andy (Sue Capito, Mike Richetto) add life to the Mardi Gras.

The thirty-first Mardi Gras sponsored by French and Spanish departments was a colorful event. Highlighting the evening was the awarding of prizes for the best costumes. Reigning at the dance as Rex and Regina were David Gibson and Mary Beth Alderman, both of Spanish Club. Attendants were Robert Bingham and Diana Lowry of French Club.

Brilliant Colors Exalt Mardi Gras Gayety

Principals in the Mardi Gras court gather after the crowning: Carole Johnson of Spanish club, Rex David Gibson, Regina Mary Beth Alderman, William Mink of French club, Diana Lowry and Robert Bingham, attendants. Crown bearers were the Gibson twins.

MARGARET COX
May Queen

May Queen Puts Spirit into Spring

Brigitte,
A sweet girl I met in my gym and health classes. Lots of luck in the future. Linda Stahl

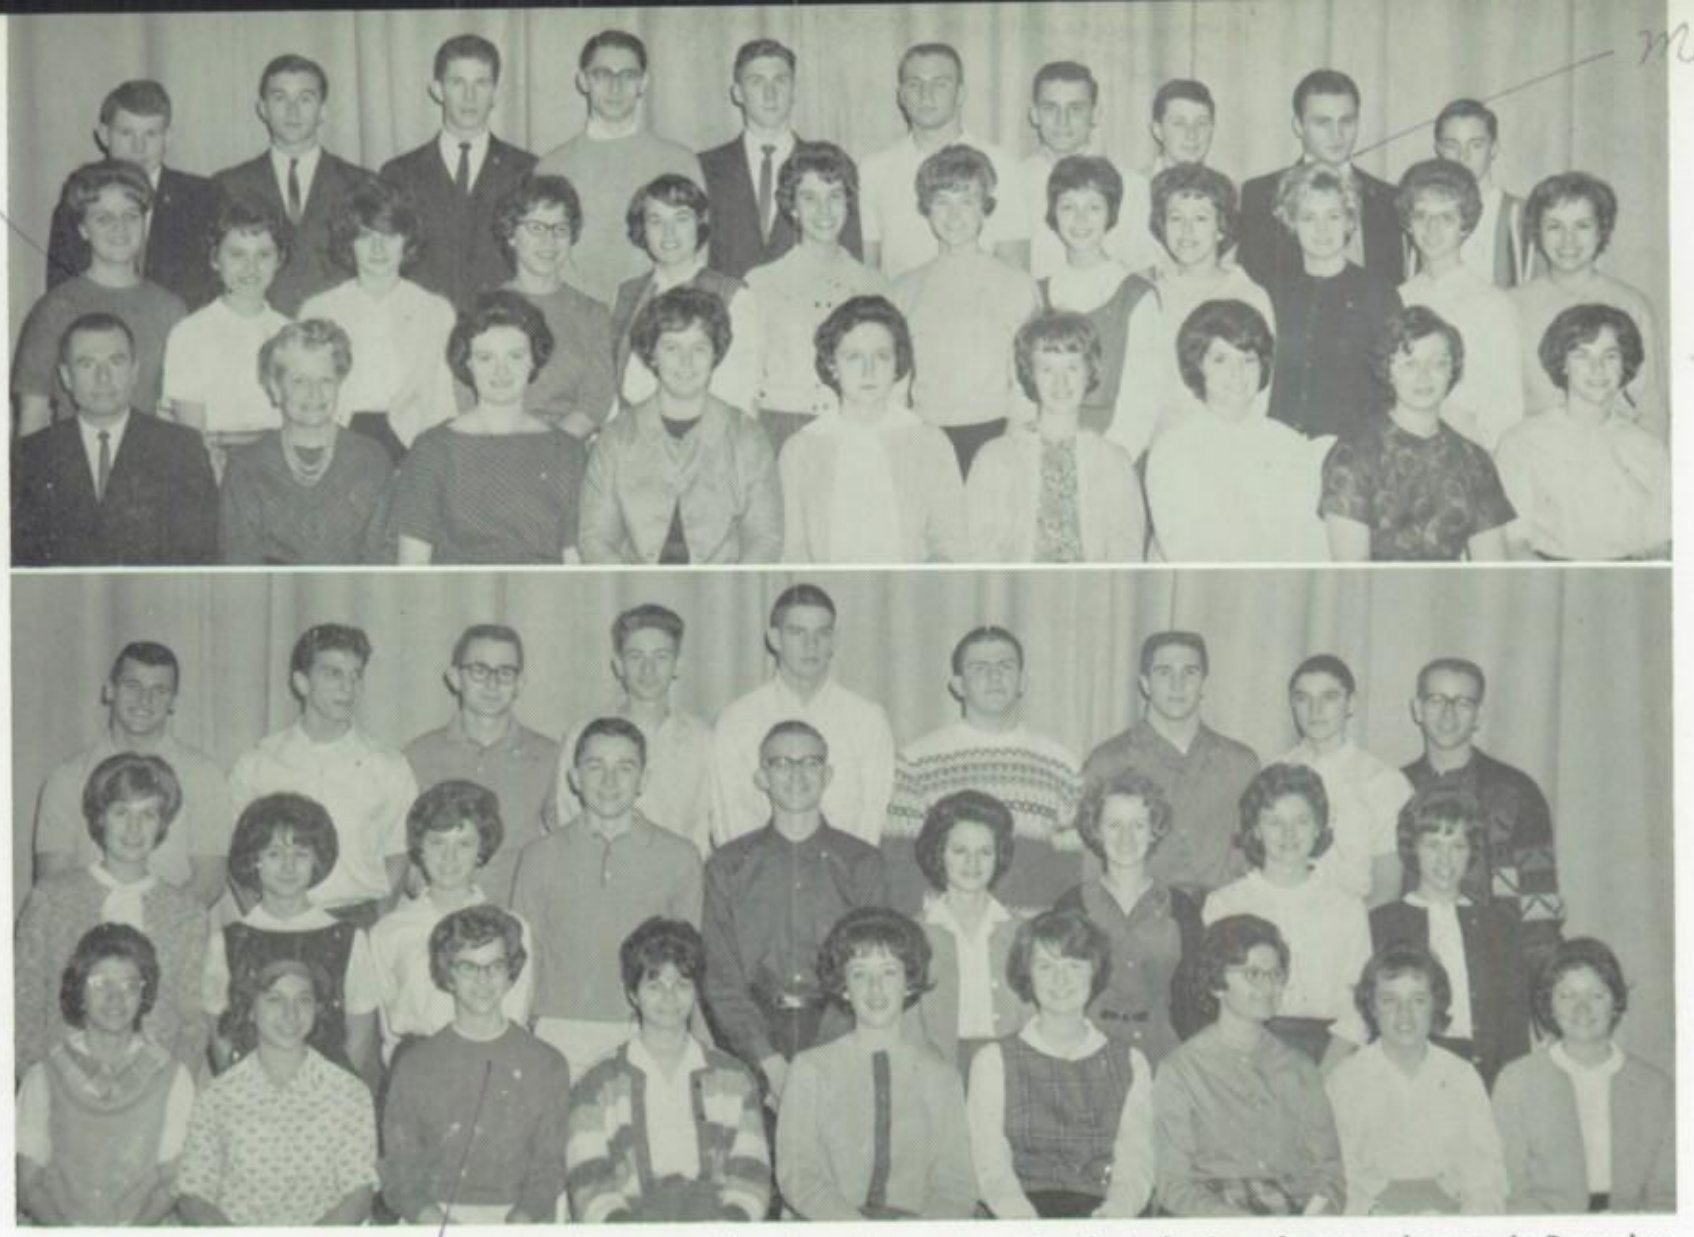
The Spring Festival is one of two dances that are sponsored annually by the junior class. Prior to the dance, a junior girl is chosen to reign over the dance as May Queen. Candidates are nominated from the junior class, and elected by the whole student body. Last year's queen was Margaret Cox. She was escorted by David Gibson, who as president of the junior class, had the honor of crowning her. Her attendants were Diana Lowry and Ceola Davis.

Traditional Events Highlight Gay Holiday Festivities

High Life's annual Mary Christmas-Hap Holiday contest to find a girl and boy who best represent the seasonal spirit introduces holiday activities. Candidates submit pictures to celebrities for judging, and the winners are featured in the Christmas edition. Hi-Y sponsored the traditionoal assembly with a presentation of "Why the Chimes Rang." Y-Teens added the climax with their "Could This Be Magic?" formal during the vacation period.

Enjoying the season which they represent, Jane Hepburn as Mary Christmas and Charles Heckman as Hap Holiday frolic in the snow.

Highlighting the Y-Teens Christmas formal was the appearance of the queen's court for the coronation: Linda Meister (Vienna) and escort; Carol Fleming; James Gardner; Kay Gibson; Queen Pamela Cocuzzi; Leslie Williams; Dianna Fleming; John Yoxtheimer; Jane Hepburn; John Pogue; Sharon Townsend (Howland) and escort. Flower girl and crown bearer were Mary Sygar and Bobby Weir.



Seniors chosen for NHS in April, 1962, and sponsors (above) gather on stage for the induction of a second group in December.

Boosters Honor America in 34th Frolics

Three Little Pigs in bop style features George Finn, Bob Sprague, Charles Dolby.

Presented in two acts on three nights, the thirty-fourth annual Boosters Club Frolics featured "America the Beautiful" as the theme. The first act was built around the Statue of Liberty, the second took place in the night world. John Pogue and David Gibson were MC's who introduced the 27 acts which had been chosen by the talent committee. Original skits, singing, dancing and instrumental numbers provided an evening of typical American entertainment.

One of several fine piano soloists was Judy Wilson.

Typical Five-and-a-half tumbling formation by Bill Marsteller, Russ Cavender, Mike Karchut.

Thrill of Publication Comes in Newspaper

Copyreading and planning the High Life dummy occupy Daphne Maligas, Mrs. Eleanor Sinner, Susanna Lepola, business manager; Ellene Tratras and Linda Niemi, while photographer Robert Balk discusses pictures for the next edition with Pat Burns.

Publishing the school paper as a private enterprise, the High Life staff encountered some different problems from previous years when the paper was subsidized by the Board of Education. Although the paper appeared monthly instead of bi-monthly as in the past, the staff experienced the excitement, interest, and hard work that go into the production. Planning dummies, writing news and headlines, reading copy and proof, making-up at the print shop paid off in the satisfaction of the final product.

The goal for all reporters is membership in Quill and Scroll, an international honorary society for high school journalists based on contributions to school publications and inches printed.

Of course, many other Hardingites enjoy writing and for them Cauldron provides an outlet. The best works of students submitted through the English classes are published in this annual magazine.

Typing copy under the eye of editor Sandra Shumaker are Dianna Fleming, Marilyn Bryant, Abby Schaffer, Marilyn Cuthriell, Michael Rawl and Paul Glock.

Editing a Literary Magazine

Quill and Scroll inductees Susanna Lepola and Abby Schaffer receive their gold membership pins from Daphne Maligas and Sandra Shumaker.

At the 1962 Cauldron exhibit for contributors and their parents, staff member Betty Daily explains the publishing of a magazine.

Choosing material from hundreds of entries and finding a place in the dummy take hours of time for the 1963 staff: Seated—Carole Johnson, Daphne Maligas, Abby Schaffer, Patricia Laprocina, literary editor; Bonnie Knight, David Rice, make-up editor; Judi Reisman, Mary Fell. Standing—Michael, Rawl, Ruth Sweedler.

Linguists Pursue International Understanding

Foreign language clubs appeal to students who like the international flavor of speaking another tongue while learning about the customs and culture of another time, another place. Those with high grades in Latin, French, and Spanish enjoy special programs and speakers. Membership has grown so large in the Spanish group that they have divided into two sections. In the Latin clubs one of the highlights of the year is the program which the advanced students present for the tenth grade group. Authentic Roman costumes add to the material prepared through careful research.

Gathered for their regular six-weeks program are members of Treannin Club, composed of advanced Latin students. Officers in charge of the meetings are: George Bauman, 1; Kathleen Smith, 2; Barbara Lampila, 3; Diane Weir, 4; Mrs. Thoman, 5.

Before Our Fans

Record-Breaking Football Team Brings State

The 1962 football team will go down as one of the greatest teams ever assembled at the home of the Red and White. The Wilsonmen piled up a 9-0-1 record and the first undefeated season since 1945. The Panthers were awarded the runnerup position in the mythical state championship which is determined each year by the Associated Press.

Ben Wilson in his third year as head coach of the Panthers, along with assistant coaches Jim Keadle, Tony Marcarello, Lou Parker, and Dick Crum, provided the Warren fans with exciting football played at its very best.

Fans and team journeyed to Mansfield for the only away game of a schedule which was to see the Panthers at home for nine straight contests. Warren scored first with Darryl Zupancic going over from the three-yard line in the second quarter. The always powerful Tygers came back with a touchdown in the fourth quarter to deadlock the game at 6-16. That was the way it ended, and it turned out to be the only blot on the 1962 season.

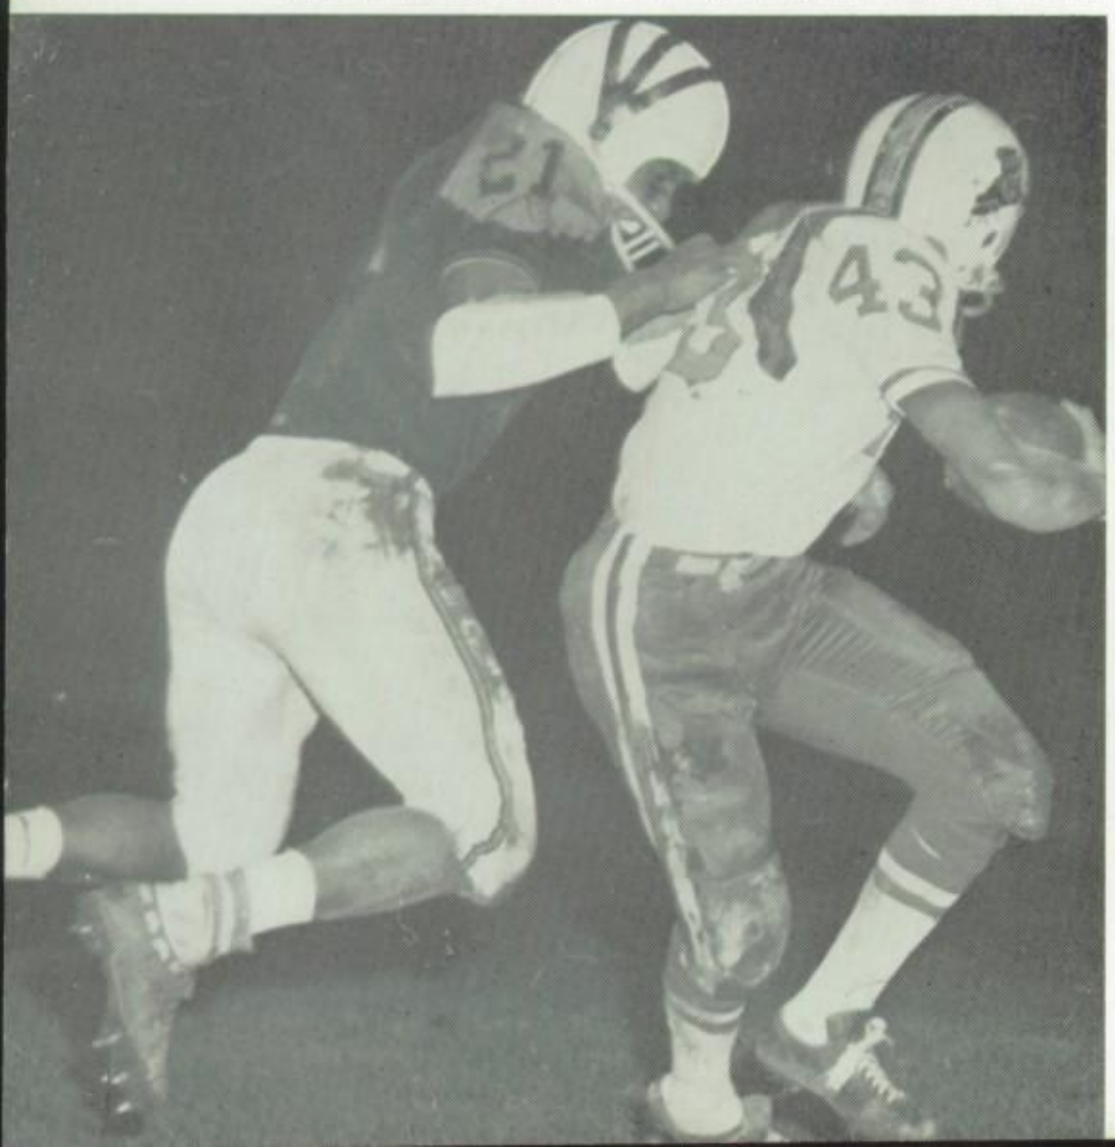
Once the Panthers returned home, there was no stopping them. They romped over Erie East, 62-0, rolled past Cleveland Lincoln, 46-0, and followed with a similar rout of Lima Senior, 42-0.

wide Recognition to Home of Red and White

"Touchdown!" signals the referee as Darryl Zupancic, aided by Russ Ferance, races into the end zone untouched by Cleveland Lincoln.

Rugged hard-nose tackling by center Dennis Yanta plays a key role in keeping yardage gained by opponents to a record low.

Speedy halfback Chucky Smith eludes another would-be tackler.



The Panthers were hampered by bad weather throughout the season. The Akron South game was literally played in the mud. Warren came out on top 30-12. Garfield Heights came to Warren with a fine record but left humiliated 52-6.

This year's homecoming game was against Cleveland John Adams. A stingy defense and an exploding offense proved to be the victory formula once again as the Panthers rolled to a 46-0 victory.

The day of October 26, the Warren area was hit by one of the worst fall snow storms in school history. By eleven o'clock the football field was covered by a blanket of snow, but with the help of the student body the field was made ready for play.

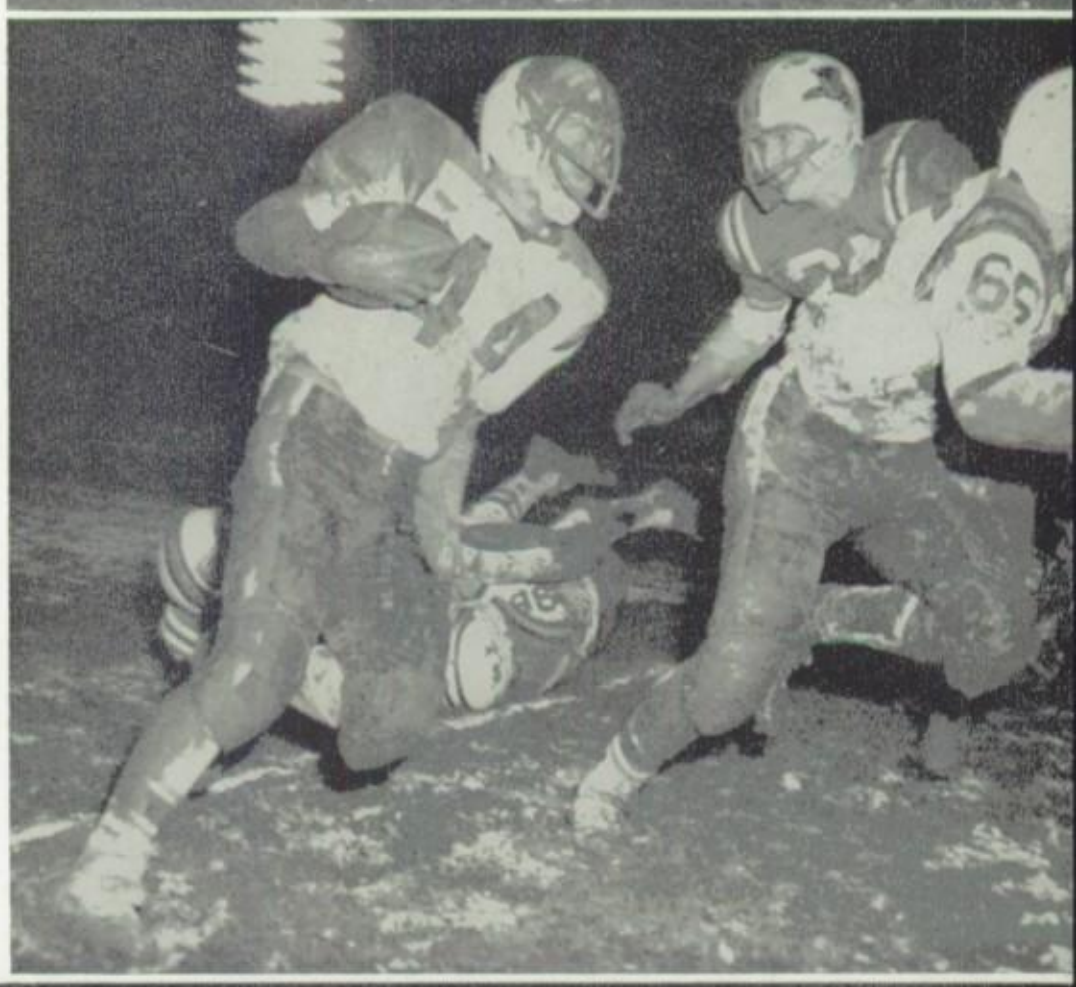
The Massillon Tigers were experiencing one of the worst seasons in Tigertown history, but 14,000 fans came out in the bitter cold to watch the traditional rivalry. Once again Harding's superior defense played an important role in providing Warren with a 20-7 victory. It was the seventh straight Panther victory.

Two years ago, after a Massillon victory, Harding was humiliated by a 44-14 defeat at the hands of the Sharon Tigers. With the thought of history repeating itself, the Tigers came to town. However, the Panthers were not to be denied as they rolled to an easy 42-6 victory.

The final game of the season was played in a steady rain against the Akron



Mud and bad weather cannot stop Darryl Zupancic from scoring while end Eric Snyder clears a path.

A Massillon back cannot evade veteran Russ Ferance.

Reedy Thomas is about to drop the ball in the end zone after a long touchdown run that leaves the opposing team in confusion.

East Orientals. Warren ended the season in championship style as they shut out Akron 40-0.

The annual football recognition banquet was held Nov. 27, at the Packard Music Hall. Bump Elliot of the University of Illinois was the guest speaker. Honorary captains were announced and presented with trophies. They were Gary Wendell, Darryl Zupancic, and Wendell "Chuckie" Smith. Gary Wendell was also presented a trophy for recovering the most fumbles and making the most tackles. Charles Williams was awarded a trophy for most passes intercepted.

The Panthers were well represented in all-state selections as four players were honored. Gary Wendell was awarded a first team guard position and Darryl Zupancic a second team fullback position. Dennis Yanta and Russ Ferance were given honorable mention.

Cross Country Enjoys Successful Campaign

Warren had one of its finest cross country campaigns in many seasons this past year. Due to their fine running ability they won ten of their twelve meets. Bob Bingham was the individual team leader as well as gaining a berth in the state meet. The team also finished a fine season with third place in the district meet.

Coach Lou Parker's wrestlers compiled a season record of three wins and six losses. Inexperience hurt the grapplers this year and as a result their record was not exceptional. In sectional competition, three boys qualified for the district meet. Ray Davis placed third in the 145 lb. class, and Don Witala also placed third in the 175 lb. class. The most outstanding wrestler on the team was heavyweight Darryl Zupancic who won the heavyweight division in the sectional and went on to place third in the district. "Zup" had an undefeated season record as he won three matches and tied two. Don Ross and Don Witala compiled respectable five and four season records.

Baseball Squad Amasses Fifteen Victories

One of the finest records was completed by the baseball team in marching to 15-2, last spring. The team recorded seven shut-outs en route to its most fabulous season in modern times. The 15 victories were the combined efforts of Dick Vingle, Ralph Hoehn, and Emil Perunko. Dick Vingle also tossed a no-hitter against Howland and only one batter reached first on a walk.

The team's batting average also matched its fine pitching with .354. Batting honors went to Bart Wilson at .466. Following were juniors Jim Levero and John Yoxtheimer at .406 and .404 respectively.

Offensively the team faired very well by scoring 96 runs in 17 games. Defensively, however, they were much tougher giving up only 33 runs in 17 games for an average of less that 2 runs per game.

Cagers Experience Best

Warren G. Harding's 1962-63 basketball team turned in the greatest season record in the annals of Warren basketball. Under the fine coaching of Head Coach Dick Boyd and Assistant Coach John Gysegem, the Panthers amassed a record of 21-4. Warren captured the Big Eight title with a record of 6-1.

Warren entered the Sectional and District Tournaments top-seeded, and they proved the tournament officials correct by winning three straight games to win the Struthers Sectional, and then stopped dangerous Salem and Youngstown Cardinal Mooney to win the District Tourney and a trip to the Cleveland Regionals.

The Panthers played a scrappy Akron South team and beat them 66-59 with Jim Gardner setting a record 44 points in that game. After the defeat of Akron South, Harding was among the eight teams left out of 471 class AA teams that started the tourney.

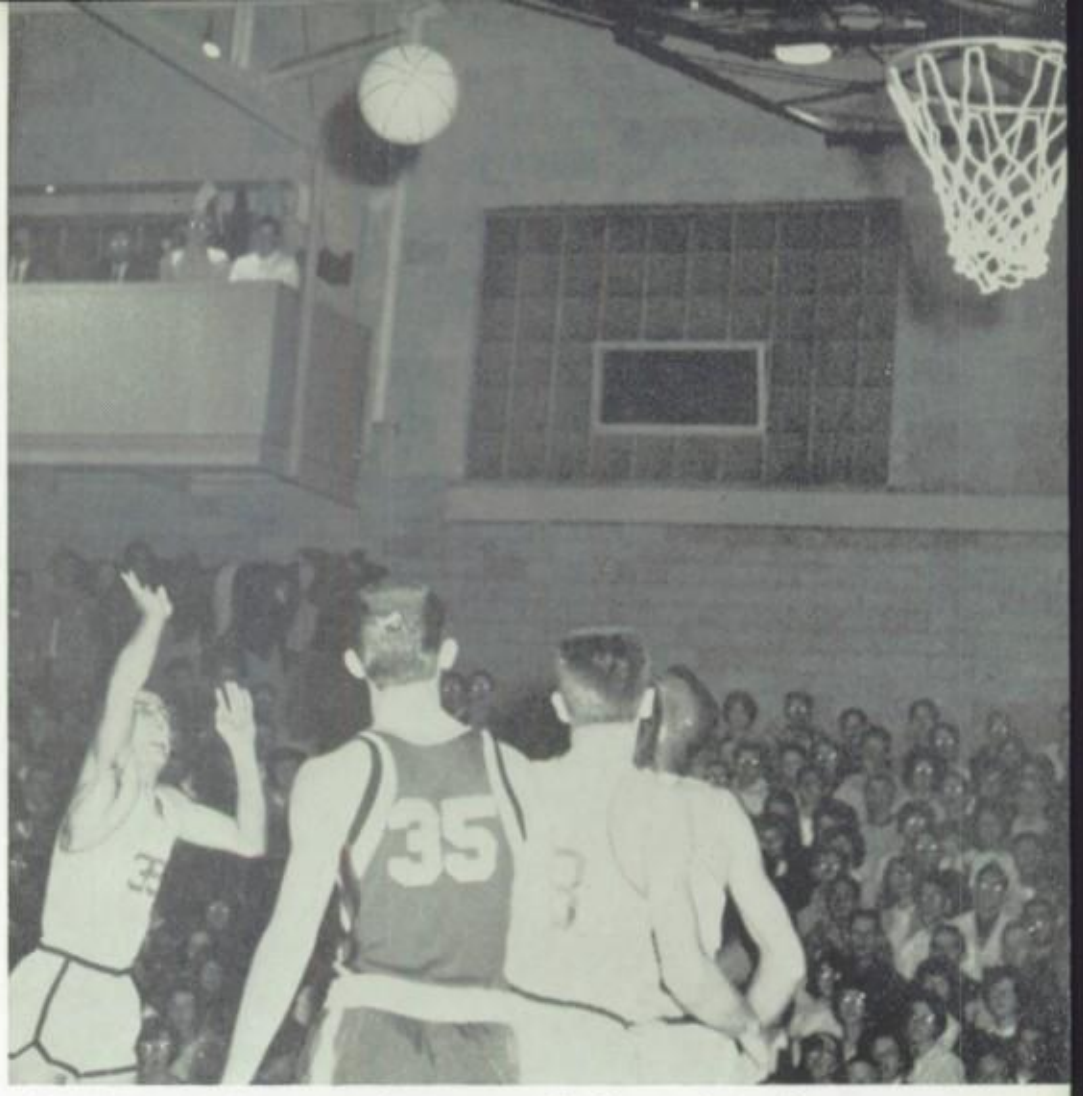
The Panthers bowed to undefeated Cleveland East Tech and although the players and fans were disappointed, everyone was proud of this great team which displayed outstanding sportsmanship, fine all-around ability, and the will to win throughout the season.

The Panthers were paced by Big Jim Gardner who was named Class "AA" Player of the Year. Big Jim broke every existing record in Warren basketball history. The sparkling play of senior letterman Bill Mink helped the Harding cagers throughout the season. Eric Snyder provided the Panthers with rebounding power. Dick Androsko and Mike Richetto are two juniors who round out the starting five. The hustling of Mike and the sharp shooting of Dick bring promise of a fine team next year.



Bill Mink, Senior letterman, demonstrates his famous jump shot.

A jump shot by Wally Pelto helps to raise the Panther score to 101 points in the final seconds of the Canton Timken game.

Breaking past a guard, Richard Androsko shoots for two points.

Jim Gardner Named Class AA Player of Year

Leading a host of towering cagers, Jim Gardner was named the outstanding player in Ohio by the Associated Press. Gardner was also awarded a first berth by the UPI, and Scholastic Magazines named him on its All-American Team of 1963. "Big Jim" smashed every Harding and Trumbull Class AA scoring record in sight during a brilliant three years of varsity play.

Jim holds the class AA career record of 1,388 points. He scored 289 points as a sophomore, 448 as a junior, and a record shattering 651 as a senior. He broke his own single game record of 40 points with a 44 point splurge against Akron South in regional competition.

Jim Gardner definitely will go down as one of the greatest basketball players to come out of Warren.

Boarding the Panther station wagon to play a district school are Coach Philip Koppel and the '62 golfers: Scott Bayman, Mark Shapiro, John Pogue, Leonard Campana, and William Lawrence.

Linksmen Experience Mediocre Campaign

The 1962 golf team underwent a mediocre season finishing fifth in the tough Trumbull County High School Golf League. Under the direction of coach Phil Koppel, the linksmen finished first in four matches. The young golfers were paced by medalist Mark Shapiro, who was a two-year letterman. The number two man on the squad was Bill Lawrence, who was also a returning letterman. Len Campana, Scott Bayman and John Pogue completed the regulars. Coach Koppel is looking forward to the 1963 campaign as he will have three returning lettermen and a couple of good sophomores that should bolster the squad.

Swimmers Break School, Pool Records

Although the swim team set seven school records and broke four in opponents' pools, they experienced a mediocre season, winning two meets while losing five. Coach Glen Moore's swimmers' best efforts brought them fourth place at the district meet at Kent. At the state meet in Columbus, the team finished eighteenth as junior Bob Van Fossan led the way with a sixth place.

Track Squad Displays Winning Form

Coach Jim Keadle's 1962 track team completed a highly successful campaign. The cindermen compiled a record of six wins against only one defeat in regular season play. The track squad was paced by several underclassmen and some highly talented veterans. Warren was host for the annual Warren Invitational Track meet which features some of the greatest track teams in Ohio. Warren finished seventh out of the twenty-three teams that entered the meet. In the district meet at Salem, the Panthers finished a respectable fifth. Five boys qualified for the State Meet in Columbus; however, Warren did not have anyone place. Coach Keadle will have some very good returning lettermen which gives promise of another successful campaign.

Veteran Tennis Team Compiles Winning Season

With only two returning lettermen, Coach Tony Marcarello faced his tenth year as head coach of the Harding Tennis Team. The 1962 squad compiled a five and three record in the rugged Mahoning Valley Tennis League. The netmen shut out two opponents, Boardman and Youngstown Chaney, while a talented Western Reserve Academy team downed the Panthers 7-0. Jack Klipple and Bruce Coad were consistant performers, while Chris Dornin and Jim Oliver were hard to beat in doubles competition. Chris Dornin, a sophomore, finished the season undefeated; however, Coach Marcarello was disappointed to learn that Chris has moved to Pittsburgh for the current school year.

Going to the first big dance of the year, sophomores Douglas Rogers and Kathleen Zeisser get into the swing of high school activities.

Can anything compare with the excitement of entering high school? Finding the right rooms and becoming accustomed to IBM schedules are all part of an exciting new world. The first dance and the first game are the beginnings of three fun-filled years. Not only does the size of their class break all previous records, but sophomore achievements both academically and socially are worthy of praise.

In Tribute to Pam

An empty space was left in the hearts of our class by an accident, which took the life of Pamela Newman before her junior year. This popular student was best known as a majorette and was an active member of Pep Club, Pantherettes, JA, Future Teachers, Y-Teens, and a monitor. Her many friends will long remember her for her pleasant smile and for the wonderful person she was.

High spots in the senior play were many. Mary Kay Branfield (upper left) scolds Gary Darr in the presence of Tom Pogue and Diane Weir. John Yerman (upper right) confers with Janet Billett about an unexpected letter. Moral issues come to the front as Robert McEwen greets Tom Pogue; and Barbara Bartlett listens to Carol Drennen's sob story.

"Nothing But The Truth" Causes Laughter

The truth about themselves has a sobering effect on David Ambrose and John Yerman.

An agreement to tell nothing but the truth for twenty-four hours provided a hilarious setting for the senior play. Many long hours of rehearsal went into the final production, and both the audience and the eleven members of the cast thoroughly enjoyed the antics of the young man as he tried to live up to his promise. The cast included: David Ambrose, Barbara Bartlett, Jane Billet, Mary Kay Branfield, Gary Darr, Carol Drennen, Robert McEwen, Tom Pogue, Diane Weir, Holly Winchell, and John Yerman.

Seniors depend on sponsors: Mrs. Elsie Mathews, Levi Hollis, Mrs. Agnes Knox, Esther Tubaugh, Thomas Perkins, Ruth LaPolla and Paul Hughes.

Capable Sponsors Guide Class

By the time the senior year rolls around, the class sponsors have a great deal of responsibility placed upon their shoulders. Class activities increase with the senior play, prom, baccalaureate, commencement, and other happenings in the lives of seniors. Events of the past three years have flowed along smoothly due to the careful planning and help of these fine people.

Editor Janne Hurrelbrink and co-editor Barbara Johnson check copy and pictures for the various sections against the yearbook progress chart.

1963 Yearbook Staff

As we think over the past year and all the things that were needed to publish the 1963 Echoes, our first reaction is to say thanks to all those who helped us. Each editor, sub-editor, photographer, and member of the staff has contributed much to making our ideas a reality. To all of you—Thanks.

To our advisor, Mrs. Eleanor Sinner, we are especially grateful for the time and advice she gave to the staff. We wouold also like to thank Wide World Photos, Inc. for their help in supplying pictures for our division pages and the companies responsible for printing and engraving our yearbook.

We hope you enjoy the 1963 Echoes, both now and in years to come. We hope we have accomplished our purpose—supplying you with a record of the 1962-63 school year at Harding.

The Editors—
JANNE and BARB

Writing copy, taking and processing pictures, making the layouts are tasks for staff members who work during third period: STANDING—Paul Glock, Marilyn Chapley; SEATED—Mary Beth Alderman, Kathy Law, Karen Steinmetz, Karen Johnson, and Jill Johnston.

Compiles Events of an Action-filled Year

Thus the year ends. The ship is landed, the mission completed, but the full measure of its success will not be realized for years to come. Carrying the memories of an exciting year, each will go his separate way.

Brigitte,
It was a real pleasure for
